SENATE FIGHT OVER NEW TREATY

Santo Domingo Matter Likely to Cause Lively Extra Session.

PRESIDENT SENDS MESSAGE TO SENATE

Declares Agreement Necessary to Maintenance of Monroe Doctrine-Committee Objects to Phraseology of Protocol-Much Interest in Final Outcome

(From Our Regular Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, March 6-The Santo Domingo troaty was taken up to-day by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. In its present form the protocol met with practically no support. There was much opposition to the phraseology of the protocol regardless of the policy involved, Senators Spooner, Morgan and Bacon taking part in the discussion.

The brief extra session of the Senate is going to be interesting by reason of the fact that the subject of the attitude we are to assume towards European nations will be discussed in the most thorough fashion. It is understood that the session will be devoted almost entirely to consideration of the treaty with Santo to consideration of the treaty with Santo Domingo, whereby we are to take over control of the customs houses of the republic, pay the foreign creditors a percentage of the revenues collected, and turn over the balance to the Dominican quovernment. It is a matter of great doubt whether the Senate will ratify the treaty. It is certain that many Republican senators do not believe that the assertion and maintenance of the Monroe Doctrine require that we should undertake to make all the little republics to the south of us pay the dobts they are alleged to owe foreign citizens, and it is strongly intimated that a majority of the Democrata take this view. However, the subject has not received careful consideration on either side of the chamber, as it was recognized as one which could so over until the press of other matters had passed with the regular session.

But the time of decision cannot be delayed much longer. The country will await with interest the announcement of the result in a week or two. If the treaty he ratified, it will mean that hereafter the United States is to be looked upon by European governments as a continental constable and collector of all debts due to the country will await with interest the announcement of the result in a week or two. If the treaty he ratified, it will mean that hereafter the United States is to be looked upon by European governments as a continental constable and collector of all debts due titzens of Europe by the governments or citizens of Europe by the governments or citizens of the more or less unruly republics of Central and South America. It will be a distinctly novel interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine, in the nature of an extension, and expansion of the principles involved in the celebrated message of President Monroe eighty-two years ago, when he put a quietus-upon the designs of the Holy Alliance upon Domingo, whereby we are to take over

FELL 100 FEET.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALE[GH, N. C., March 5.—During the progress of the Billy Kersand's minstel show to-night in the Academy of Music Nat Gill, a negro hack driver, fell from a window in the gallery over one hundred feet to the ground and was killed instantly. The gallery was crowded, and Gill was intoxicated and was pushed by the crowd or staggered over against the fron bars that were in the window as a protection. They gave way, the negro, who weighed over two hundred pounds, going right through, failing to instant death. It appears that no blame can possibly be attached to the management of the theatre for the accident.

Spring Street, this city, are deeply concerned about their seventeen-year-old son. Landon Gill, who has suddenly disbeen employed by the Southern Railway, recently in the passenger department of the road. Young Mr. Gill left his home last Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock saying that he was going down to the Main street station far an entertainment there. Since that time none of his family has seen him, and no one else who knows him, as far as can now be ascertained. The young man had for some time been employed as a messenger in the office of Assistant General Freight Agent J. II of Assistant General Freight Agent J. II Drake, of the Southern Railwy, in this city. About a month ago he accepted the position of stenographer in the office of District Passenger Agent C. W. Westbury, of the Southern Railway, succeeding Mr. Nicholas Slattery.

Mr. Gill entered upon the discharge of his duties February 1st, and had just drawn his first month's salary in his new position last Wednesday. The remuneration of the place in the passengal department was considerably better than department was considerably better than his former position as messenger, and the young man was apparently well pleased with his new work, and doing excellently in it. He did not appear for work Thursday morning, and it was supposed he will, until it was learned at his residence that his family did not know whore he was. Mr. Gill, his father, received that day a letter from the son, stating that he was going away, and toiling them not to worry about him, as he was all right. Is a Mystery.

The unexplained departure of the young man is a source of great, anxioty to his parents, who are wholly unable to account for his sudden and unexplained determination to leave his home and position. Captain Westbury, in whose, office he was employed, was greatly pleased with his work there, and equally higher he was employed, was greatly pleased with his work there, and equally higher disappearance.

The letter to his parents announcing the disappearance was written on a Remington typewriter and railroad stationery, and was signed in Mr. Gill's handwritting, "Landon." It was brief, and beyond the meageness of the information conveyed it is not remarkable in any respect, being a natural and affectionate note written by a son to his parents, announcing his determination to go away. In the course of his letter he asked that his music be looked after in his absence, and states that he will write to his parents "some time." Young Gill was a very clever planist and was fond of music, His habits were steady and he was regarded by his parents as an exemplary young man of rather retiring, manners and modest temperament.

Despite-diligent inquiry in this city and letters to relatives residing in other places, Mr. Gill, the father of the young man, has been unable to get any trace of his son, and is becoming very anxious concerning him. So far as known there is absolutely no motive for his strange disappearance. He is not known to have expressed to any one a desire to go away and seek his living elsewhere, and was apparently well sattsfied with his new position.

BRIBERY CHARGE MADE IN COLORADO

State Senator Says He Was Offered $1,500 to Vote for Adams.

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, COL., March 6.-Charges of bribery in relation to the contest of James H. Peabody, for the chair of Gov-promised to pay the undersigned the sum of $1,500 to vote for Alva Adams for Governor in the contest now pending before this joint convention.

"Of this sum, said James M. Herbert paid the sum of $750. This money I have given to George Stidger, district attorney for the city and county of Denver, for his official use. I have also given to him such information as he requires in his official use. I have also given to him such information as he requires in his official expacity."

James M. Herbert is vice-president and general manager of the Colorado and Southern Railroad. Daniel Sullivan is postmaster of Cripple Creek and a prominent Republican of Colorado.

Charges of bribery and consilizacy were filed against Herbert and Sullivan in the Criminal Court, by District Attorney Stidger simultaneously with the making of charges in the joint convention by Samtor Morgan. Bonds for $5,000 each were furnished by the accused men. Both Herbert and Sullivan issued statements to-night, in which they assert that Morgan solicited the bribe, and that Herbert refused to have anything to do with Morgan.

This afternoon Postmaster Sullivan assaulted Richard Broad, a Peabody worker, on the street, striking him in the face with his fist, Sullivan says that Broad and others instignated Morgan to make the charges to influence fegislators in favor of Peabody.

MORRIS MATTER IS EXPLAINED

Dawson Tells Jury of Transactions With Broad Street

Merchant. Unusual interest developed in the Busby

Unusual interest developed in the Bussy damage suit yesterday, owing to the fact that the court, after argument by coursel, decided to permit Mr. Royall, for the plaintiff, to examine Mr. Luther Dawson, chief defendant, with reference to his transaction of the affairs of the firm of Morris (incorporated).

The object of Mr. Royall was to establish that Dawson is not a reputable law-

The object of Mr. Royall was to establish that Dawson is not a reputable lawyer, and that he had demonstrated this in winding up the firm's business, but when he had examined the witness at some length on this line, a letter from Morris was produced, stating that all his dealings with Mr. Dawson had heen pleasant and satisfactory. In anticipation of this new feature of the case, a large number of spectators were on hand when court convened at 4 o'clock P. M.

Judge Ingram had heard the lawyers on the question of the admissibility of testimony, referring to the Morris matter during the morning, and when he ascended the bench he announced that he would allow the matter to be brought in, and Mr. Royall proceeded to question the witness.

the witness.

How He Met Morris.

Mr. Dawson stated that he had met Mr. J. A. Morris, of the firm of Monris (Incorporated) in 1993, when the latter had approached him and asked him if he would like to invest some money in a good business, referring to his own.

Witness made Morris a loan of $1,500, which was afterwards found to be insufficient to relieve him, and this was augmented with $700, making $2,200.

Later this was secured by a deed of trust on the stock.

Finally there was a sale to Samuel Moore for $2,500, and Dawson put up the money, the business boing in Morris's name. The merchandise on hand was not sold to Moore.

Dawson sale he was, of course, interested to get back the $2,200 put into the business. After this was paid, there was $300 left from the sale, of which, he admitted! Morris get nothing.

Witness said he had raised $1,200 to salisfy certain claims against Morris (incorporated) in the hands of certain local attorneys. This paid off many of them at 46 cents in the dollar. In answer to questions by Mr. Royall, witness declared he know nothing of an alleged effort on the part of Schnurman, the tailor, to employ Lucas, the chief witness for Busby, as bookkeeper at $1,800 per year, with the view of staving off Lucas; testimony in the case. He also asked Dawson if he had agreed to put $10,000 in Schnurman's business, and the latter denied that he had.

Mr. Royall attempted to examine the witness with reference to some other coliatoral matters, but his questions were ruled out by the court.
